Fall 2007

Bringing Color to your Fall Gardens!

Hello to our Gardening Friends...

Getting ready for our fall season has led to this shortened newsletter format so we apologize for trying to cram a lot of information in a little bit of space! We have two fall events planned and we're offering 40% off all roses, evergreens, flowering shrubs, perennials, herbs, houseplants and pottery on those two days only. These specials are for our mail list customers only and will not be advertised. So come and join our classes and take advantage of your plant savings! You must bring this newsletter to receive your plant discounts!

Two Great Fall Events!

Sunday, Sept. 16

Master Gardener Day (Noon-3:00 pm)

12:15 pm	Dividing perennials	MG Erika Tsumura will show how, when and why to divide your favorite perennials for best performance
1:15 pm	Soil nutrition	MG Anne Hawk will discuss soil nutrition and the importance of amendments to your soil to achieve maximum performance from your plants ( Soil test kits will be available )
2:15 pm	Collecting and Saving Seeds	MG Shirley Halk will show you how to gather seeds from your annual and perennial plants and store them for planting next spring

Bring your questions -- these Master Gardeners will be available in between sessions to help provide guidance on all your gardening problems.

Mother's Day Hanging Basket Drawing Winner

And just when we thought that our shoppers came only from the central PA area, we were surprised to pull the winning ticket and find that this year's hanging basket winner was Christine George from Reisterstown, MD! Christine just happened to visiting family (who already shop here) and signed up for our drawing.

2007 Garden Contest Winners

We are pleased to announce the following winners of a $100 gift certificate in our 2007 garden contest:

Penn State Summer Garden Experience

On July 28, we loaded up in several vans full of customers and employees and headed to the Penn State Field Trials in Landisville. Not only did we get to see all the new plant varieties for next year, but listened to guest speakers talk about cut flowers, native plants, designing an espaliere, and growing vegetables in your flower beds among others. It was a great day!
